

SupplyPro Announces The Launch Of Its Revolutionary Inventory Shelf Tag

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SAN DIEGO, CA (PRWEB) August 29, 2023 – SupplyPro is proud to announce the upcoming launch of its game-changing Inventory Shelf Tag, a part of the UStockit® platform. Building on the success of the beta testing phase, the UStockit Inventory Shelf Tag will soon be available for sale, meeting the overwhelming demand from distributors and customers seeking innovative and cost-effective inventory management solutions.

The UStockit platform introduces smart technology that transforms any shelf, storeroom, or warehouse into a virtual vending machine with a simple push of a button. This cutting-edge solution integrates electronic shelf label technology with powerful SupplyPro inventory management software, providing real-time, on-demand access to inventory counts and streamlining inventory control processes like never before.

Embracing the Power of Smart Technologies

The demand for automated capabilities from industrial distributors has surged due to changing market dynamics and customer expectations. With SupplyPro's intelligent software and Bluetooth-enabled Inventory Shelf Tags, distributors can effortlessly automate inventory tracking, ordering, and replenishment, reducing errors, minimizing labor costs, and optimizing warehouse operations at an extremely low cost per SKU.

A Cloud-Based Solution for Efficient Inventory Management

UStockit's cloud-based inventory system automates ordering, tracks real-time inventory levels, and provides replenishment alerts. The Inventory Shelf Tags display crucial product information, such as product name, part number, stock location, and current quantity. Accessible via a browser or mobile app, the UStockit platform empowers businesses to access inventory data and insights precisely when and where they need it.

Making Inventory Control Smarter and Simpler

The UStockit Inventory Shelf Tags communicate with a wireless gateway using low-energy Bluetooth technology, sending data to the UStockit cloud software. With the handheld scanner delivering real-time information via the SupplyPro cloud-based software, inventory management becomes efficient, accurate, and user-friendly.

With SupplyPro's UStockit Inventory Shelf Tag, distributors of all sizes can offer inventory control to their customers. This game-changing solution turns any shelf, storeroom, or warehouse into a virtual vending machine with a simple push of a button, enabling them to be more efficient, productive, and profitable.

By automating inventory tracking and replenishment, distributors free up valuable time and resources. Precision restocking reduces carrying costs and eliminates stockouts, leading to improved accuracy, fewer emergency orders, and unplanned deliveries. The UStockit Inventory Shelf Tag increases customer satisfaction and strengthens customer relationships.

“We are thrilled to introduce this transformative, low cost solution, empowering distributors to enhance operational efficiency and provide unparalleled service to their customers. The future of inventory control is here, and we are proud to revolutionize the industry with this cutting-edge product.” - Floyd Miller, CEO of SupplyPro.
